Slovenia is a central European country, surrounded by Austria, Croatia, Hungary and Italy. Its 20.256 km<sup>2</sup> places it among the smallest countries of the world, in exactly the 150th place among 190 countries.

A good half of the country is overgrown with forests. Slovenia is along with Finland and Sweden at the top of European countries. Its geographical position between the Alps, Pannonia lowlands, Dinarsko mountains and Mediterranean creates countryside with a hundred and one faces and gives the opportunity for adventure in the mountains, lowlands and seaside all at the same time in a matter of hours. The small size of the country corresponds also to the length of its seashore; we have 46 km in all, consequently Slovenia's two million inhabitants are proud and happy to share it with visitors. Slovenia also represents a crossroad of Romance, Germanic, Finno-Ugric and Slavonic languages. So it is not by chance that linguists in Slovenia have discovered more than 40 dialects and different cultures.

BASIC INFO

WEATHER AND CLIMATE

Maribor is the second biggest Slovene city; simultaneously it is the economic, cultural, scientific research, congress and a complete tourist centre of northeast Slovenia. It is also a traffic centre, as it is on the crossroads from west to east and southern Europe, just 11 km from the Austrian border. It has a continental position at 275 meters above sea level lying between Pohorje, Slovene hills and Kozjak on the gravelly terraces of the River Drava. Or more simply said: it lies in the green embrace of Pohorje and the wine growing hills along the river Drava.

Maribor, the capital of Štajerska, is one of the sunniest places in Slovenia. As the second largest Slovene city it offers all that its citizens need. The green surroundings give the opportunity for a quick hop to the top of Pohorje on the one side and wine growing hills on the other, or one can roam down by the River Drava, which wends its way through the city. This small city, embraced by rural surroundings, certainly contributes to making you feeling well.

You can also hear us rambling over the wine growing hills; these raise, so to speak, from the centre of the city where we also have the oldest vine in the world, the symbol of our wine culture. We also enjoy beer - if you want to please us then just mention that there is no beer like Laško, and that it can't possibly be compared with Union, beer produced in Ljubljana. You could say there is some rivalry between Maribor and Ljubljana, specially in football and beer.

Average summer temperature: 20 °C
 Average winter temperature: 2 °C
 No. of sunny days per year: 266

Due to the changes in climate - Mediterranean at the coast, Alpine in the Alps and Karavanke mountains, and Pannonian to the northeast of the country - the appropriate clothes for each season is recommended. Average temperatures in July are above 23°C and in January 0°C. In the summer it can be very hot at the coast and quite cold in the mountains. We advise you to check the weather forecast before coming to Slovenia.

Maribor is one of the sunniest places in Slovenia, for on an average it has 266 sunny days per year. Fog mainly occurs only in the winter in the early hours of the morning. Its favourable position also protects Mariborians and visitors from unpleasant winds. Maribor shares a strong Pannonian influence, and that is why the amount of rainfall in the city is somewhat lower (on an average 1050 mm per year). The most rain falls in the period from April to July, mostly as showers and heavy rain.

Maribor has, as is characteristic for a place in a continental climate, four seasons - winter, spring, summer and autumn.
